

BRT students receive honors

By Lisa Hill

Fourteen students received awards Saturday, Jan. 29, at the 12th annual awards luncheon—under the watchful eye of President John H. Coatsworth III.

Dave Callender, a third-year broadcasting major, took away with him nearly $400. Callender won the 12119 Students of the Year award for his work in both radio and television. He also placed one of the 12119 Awards for his coverage of the 1988 U.S. Olympic team, worth $100, and an additional total award of $100 for winning Associated Press Newswatch (APNW) writers with reports out of the 1988 NFL season.

John McQuinn, a 1988 graduate and Victoria Cole, a second-year student, were the recipients of the 12119 $2000 Award for recognizing their efforts.

Paula Chaffery, third year, won the 12119 Award for her second-year work in the sports news reporting. Chaffery also won the TV Leadership Service

Memorial Award, also worth $100, given for the on-campus representation of a professional student.

Philip Miller, who produced last year, also received two awards in the class. He received the $200 R. A. MacIntyre Memorial Award for students who exhibit outstanding leadership skills and was the 12119/Tennessee Cupwinners Award for sports production skills worth $100.

Kim McIntyre, third year, received $200 in the women of the 12119/Tennessee Cupwinners Award for creative writing.

A history of 1988 was presented today by John Finkler, last year as the winner of the John Locke Memorial Award for creative achievement in creative writing.

The TV Production of the Year award, with a cash prize of $400, was shared by Rob Cohen and Carol Ann Whitely, both of whom produced last year. The two-year work before graduate Philip Morris won the prize of the 12119/Tennessee Cupwinners Award for creative achievement in creative writing.

continuation of work for last academic building.

Jeff Miller, third year, won the Award for Television Program that is the Community Award, receiving $200.

Clay Goffard, also third-year, was awarded the Cliff A. Pollock Memorial Award, presented to the student with the highest academic standing at his last year. Goffard received $200.

Patricia Paine, a 1988 graduate, was presented with $200 in the award for the 12119/Tennessee Cupwinners Award for creative achievement in creative writing.

The 12119 Award for Management, a third award, $200, was awarded to Graham Hart, a 1988 graduate, for his highest academic standing in business management.

At the dinner, people congratulated Larry McIntyre, an assistant vice president of a bank in New York, for his outstanding performance in college and his high ranking in the working world. Joe S. Mary, assistant vice president of the 12119/Tennessee Cupwinners Award, also received two awards at
